Program Website (<https://www.gfcmsu.edu/webs/substanceabuse/>)

The Substance Abuse & Addictions Counseling AA prepares individuals for careers in the addictions field. The program is designed to develop the student's skills to provide therapeutic services for people dealing with substance abuse, and with an emphasis on helping them maintain recovery and prevent relapse. Graduates will be prepared for entry into the drug and alcohol counseling profession. By pursuing this emphasis, students complete both a general Associate of Arts degree and the preparatory coursework required to become a licensed addictions counselor. It also allows for transfer to a variety of baccalaureate programs.

Outcomes

Graduates are prepared to:

- Apply the diverse theoretical foundations of addiction and substance use to the hands-on practice in the treatment setting, with a particular focus upon trauma, addiction and substance use disorder for a diverse population.
- Blend theoretical knowledge and applied skills in a variety of settings, including screening, intake, assessment, treatment planning, relapse prevention and case management.
- Engage in the application of a range of models and modalities in the treatment of addiction and substance abuse disorders.
- Acquire foundational knowledge in matters pertaining to legal standards, professional guidelines and ethical issues.
